EDITED BY

A. W. HUGHES CLARKE.

VOLUME II.

FIFTH SERIES.

CHANCERY LANE, E.C. 4.

Prefatory Note.

APOLOGY is necessary for the delay in the issue of the Index to complete this Volume, which delay has been brought about by shortage of labour and other causes arising out of the War. Thanks are due to our Subscribers for their kind indulgence in our difficulties.

To all his Contributors the Editor must again return his cordial thanks. Special mention should be made of the pedigrees of Parys, Gunning and Cade by Everard Green, Esq., the pedigrees of the Fettiplace Family, by J. Renton Dunlop, Esq., and the "Early Register of Shere," by the Rev. W. Hudson.

It is to be hoped that the Visitation Pedigrees of Oxfordshire, Sussex and London, as well as the numerous grants of Arms, will be found of some value.

It is with great regret that, in view of the great addition in the cost of printing, it has been necessary to increase the price of the Journal in future, but it will be necessary also to obtain further support from new Subscribers in order to meet these extra costs; therefore the Editor trusts that Subscribers will bring the work of this Journal to the notice of those interested in Genealogy and Heraldry.

GENEALOGICAL EXTRACTS FROM SIXTEENTH-CENTURY WILLS IN THE CONSISTORY COURT AT CANTERBURY.

These extracts are taken from a MS. in our possession which is in the autograph of Clement Taylor Smythe, Esq., of Maidstone, and a pencil note therein states that it was begun 8 Nov. 1842 at 8 o'clock in the evening. The Extracts commence at 1451 and end at 1731.

On referring to the Calendar of the Wills, it seems that this MS. does not contain extracts of all the Wills in that Court. Mr. Smythe, however, appears to have taken genealogical and archæological notes of the principal Wills, which supply much additional information to the various "Visitations of Kent," as well as to many important families not referred to in the Heralds' Visitations.

Where the extract of any will in this MS. does not contain any genealogical information it has been omitted.

Monumental Inscriptions and Heraldry in St. Olave's, Hart Street, London, with Annotations from Wills, etc.

The following Inscriptions, with the Annotations, were kindly placed at our disposal for publication by John Avery, Esq., F.C.A., F.S.S., of 52 Coleman Street, E.C., and Mrs. Isabella J. Corcoran, the executors of the late Bryan Corcoran, Esq., of Mark Lane, E.C., and South Croydon, who died on the 4th August 1915. Mr. Corcoran was for several years Upper Churchwarden of St. Olave's, and had always taken a great interest in its history. During his lifetime he published an historical guide to the Church, which at the time of his death was in its third edition. He also had, at considerable expense, the Parish Registers of St. Olave transcribed with the object of printing and publishing them, which was prevented by his decease. They will however be issued at an early date by the Harleian Society.

The transcriptions and annotations were made by Mr. Arthur J. Jewers on behalf of the late Mr. Corcoran.

A large monument in the south-east corner over the vestry door. Four pillars support a shallow canopy or cornice, above which is a shield of the arms of Deane. The pillars divide the upper part into three compartments; of these, the centre one is much broader and the top arched, and in it, kneeling at a faldstool, are figures of Sir James Deane and his third wife; in the other two recesses are kneeling effigies of the first and second wives of the knight, each carrying a skull, also beneath the first wife an infant and beneath the third two infants. Below these compartments are three panels corresponding to the recesses above. The outer ones are blank, and in the centre is the inscription.

The arms are, over the canopy, a shield, mantling and helmet, viz.: Gules, a lion couchant guardant or, on a chief argent three crescents of the field. Crest: A demi-lion rampant-guardant or, holding in the dexter paw a crescent gules, DEANE. At the foot of the monument are three shields: 1, DEANE as above; impaling, Argent, on a bend between two crosses formée fitchée gules three mullets of the field, pierced of the bend, BUMSTED. Sir James Deane, knighted at Whitehall 8 July 1604, was descended from the family of Deane or Dene of Denelands. Sir James amassed a large fortune as a merchant adventurer to India, China, and the Spice Islands. He was fined for refusing to act as Alderman. He gave the rectory of Deane in Hampshire to his brother-in-law Holdip and his successors. Lord of the Manor of Basingstoke, to which town he was a liberal benefactor, he built almshouses for eight poor aged men or women, and his bequests, with some others, enabled the Aldermen and Wardens in 1609 to declare the Fraternity or Guild of the Holy Ghost, standing in the ancient cemetery, a Free School, the master being still called the Chaplain of the Chapel of the Holy Ghost. He remembered the poor in every parish in which he had lived or owned property. He was married three times, first to Susan the daughter of Christopher Bumsted, secondly to Elizabeth daughter of Hugh Offley, Alderman of London, his third wife being Elizabeth the daughter of Richard Thornhill of Bromley in Kent, and relict of Christopher Webbe, Esq., eldest son of Sir William Webbe, Knt., Lord Mayor of London in 1591 (by whom she had a son Sir William Webbe, Knt., who married a daughter of Sir Rowland Litton, Knt.). This lady, after the death of Sir James Deane, married as her third husband John Brewster, Esq., of London, secondary of the Fine Office, the 29th of Sept. 1609, and died the 25rd of Oct. 1609, and was buried in St. Sepulchre's the 2nd of Nov. following. For pedigree of Deane (Dene) see "Visitation of Hampshire" (Harl. Soc.), p. 88. The will of Sir James, although very long, contains much of interest, as this abstract shews:—

Alexander Nisbet in his Heraldry[1] states that Nisbet of Carfin is a branch of the Nisbets of Greenholm, "a family of good old standing in the shire of Ayr, descended of Nisbet of that ilk." This descent cannot be proved from documents, but the Carfin family can be traced by a complete chain of evidence back to—

James Nisbet, "formerly in Feoch[2] and then residing in Ireland,"[3] who on 2 February 1633 got a Crown Charter of the lands of Ladytoun, Overmuir and Carlingcraigs in Loudoun parish, Ayrshire, on a disposition from Alexander Hamilton of Ladytoun.[4] He married Jean Hamilton and died between 1654 and 1661, leaving issue—

1. James, of Ladytoun,[5] who died unmarried in February 1681.[6]
2. Archibald Nisbet I. of Carfin, born 1631;[7] admitted a Writer to the Signet 16 July 1661; bought Carfin (or Carphin) in Bothwell parish, Lanarkshire, from John Baillie 7 June 1677;[8] acquired the island of North Ronaldshay and also Woodwick and other lands on the mainland

† Jane Bomford (née Shinton) in her will, dated 21 May 1784, calls her son-in-law Wilson Bomford "my son." She also calls Thomas Bomford her "eldest" son, and does not mention William. William was certainly the eldest son of Thomas Bomford (died 1757), and I have found no evidence of Thomas having married any other wife before he married Jane Shinton. He was 25 when he married Jane.

Sacred to the memory of
SUSAN the beloved wife of THOMAS LYNN and daughter of THOMAS SIMPSON, Esq^re of Ufford in the county of Suffolk;
who departed this life Sept^r 16^th, 1834
in the 57^th year of her age.
Under the care of an excellent mother, she was early grounded in the faith, and instructed in the precepts of her blessed Redeemer, which with unostentatious fervour, meekness and exalted piety, she exhibited in the several duties of, child, wife, parent and friend; thereby laying up for herself a crown of everlasting glory, through the merits and intercession of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, Amen.
Her remains are deposited in the vault under the South aisle of this church.

From a plain mural tablet close to the door into the vestry. The Burial Register gives her burial as on the 24th Sept. 1834, as from Trinity Square.

3. Beneath the last-mentioned memorial and occupying the space there between the south-east corner and the vestry door is the oldest memorial now remaining in the Church, consisting of a large slab of purbeck marble with brasses inlaid, of which five shields: two ladies, one with two sons and below them the names Willm, Johñ, the other with three daughters with beneath them Bridgitta, Anna, Bridgitta. From the mouth of the lady to the left is a scroll inscribed: "Te spiritu peraclitū in quo o'ia confitemur." Over the two sons is a scroll inscribed: "Te unum in su(bstantia trinitatem—now gone) in personis confitem^r." From the mouth of the lady on the right is the matrix of a scroll, which probably bore the invocation: "Te filium unigenitum per quem o'ia confitemur." Over the three children behind her is a scroll inscribed: "Libera nos salva nos Justifica, o beata trinitas." Between the two ladies is the matrix of the brass figure of their husband, with a scroll inscribed: "Te Deum p'rem ingenitum a quo o'ia confitemur." Above the figure of the man is the matrix of a plate, on which was probably a representation of the Trinity. The arms are, in the centre at the top: I. A single hose, but no doubt intended for his family arms, viz., Or, a human leg couped at the thigh azure, because the crest is that of his family, namely, Or, a man's leg couped in the middle of the thigh in armour proper, garnished and spurred or, embowed at the knee, the foot in chief and toe to the dexter. II. Barry nebulee of six argent and azure, on a chief gules a lion passant guardant or, MERCHANT OF THE STAPLE. This is on the left hand of Haddon. To the right we have: III. Gules, a virgin couped below the shoulders affrontée, issuing from clouds all proper, crined, vested and crowned with an eastern coronet or, all within a bordure of clouds of the second, MERCERS' COMPANY. Below the arms of the Merchants of the Staple is this coat: IV. Argent, on a chevron between three lions rampant sable, the two in chief respecting, as many bezants, MORLAND OR NORLAND of Kent. The last shield, V., is quarterly of four: 1, Sable, five bezants, two, one and two, a chief or, ROBERT BYFELD, Alderman of London; 2, Argent, a chevron ermines between three eagles' legs erased at the thigh sable, BRAY; 3, Bendy of six .... and ....; 4, ... three piles issuing from the top of the shield. These shields were originally enamelled in their proper colours, but they are now quite gone, which makes it difficult to identify the third and fourth quarterings in the fifth shield.

This monument is mentioned in the 1633 edition of Stow as being on the north wall [of the Sanctuary], and as being then imperfect. Later it was covered by oak panelling; this was removed about 1846, but the stone remained in the same position until 1870, when in the course of the alterations in the chancel it was removed to its present place. The file or label round the edge of the slab giving the name and other particulars of the person commemorated is gone, the matrix alone shewing it was there, but the shields of arms leave no doubt as to who is commemorated by it. As we have mentioned, the chief shield, shewn to be so by its having helmet, crest and mantling, has the arms of Haddon slightly misrepresented and the crest of that family; we can therefore safely assign it as the memorial of Sir Richard Haddon, Citizen and Mercer, also Merchant of the Staple; he was Alderman of Bridge Ward, and was Lord Mayor in 1506 and for the latter part of 1512. According to Orridge he was a native of London, but the following abstracts of the will of William Haddon and that of Sir Richard himself shew that he was of a Northamptonshire family:—

William Haddon, whose will, dated 13 March 1473 (P.C.C., 34, Wattys) bequeaths his lands in Staverton and West Haddon in Northamptonshire, with all rights, rents, services, etc., in Staverton, to son Richard Haddon and to his heirs lawfully begotten, but if he dies without issue, then the said lands, etc., to be equally divided between Elizabeth, wife of William Bufford, and Katherine, wife of Henry Denys, testator's daughters, for their lives and then to remain to their heirs lawfully begotten, and failing such issue remainder over to testator's right heirs. Testator's feoffees John Thomas of West Haddon and Thomas Grene, late of the same, are to make an estate good in the law of testator's capital messuage in West Haddon, which one Robert Ormond and Annys his wife sometime held, to son Richard Haddon, and the like of all the other lands to testator's wife Johane for her life, and after her death to said son Richard Haddon. Son "Maister John Haddon, doctor," is not to do anything to oppose this will, and if he allows it to take effect peaceably he is to have £100, but not otherwise. Proved 8 Feb. 1476.

Sir Richard Haddon, Knt, Alderman and Mercer of London. Will dated 1 Aug. 1516 (P.C.C., 29, Holder). If testator dies in or within thirty miles of London he directs that he is to be buried within the parish church of St. Olave "next to the Crowched freres" of London before the Image of St. Olave, in the place where his former wife Anne lieth buried. To the High Altar of St Olave for tithes forgotten 20*s*. To the body of the said church £40. To the same church a "Moustrell of silver and gilt." To the freres of Greenwich for the like purpose 40*s*. To the Black Friars, White Friars, Friars Augustines and Gray Friars, of London, to each of these orders 40*s*. To the brotherhood of St. Michael in the church of St. Michael, Crooked lane, 40*s*. To the repairs and ornaments of the church of Staverton in Northamptonshire 40*s*. £173 6*s*. 8*d*. to be distributed during the space of twenty years to five poor men inhabiting within the parish of St. Olave, namely, 3*s*. 4*d*. each week on Sunday at the testator's grave, and they in return are to pray for his soul and the souls of his relations. For a yearly obit to pay the priest to sing and say mass £200. £30 to be distributed in coals among the poor of the said parish of St. Olave, and the parishes of St. Mary of Staining and of Our Lady of Barking next the Tower of London, at the Feast of All Souls five loads, and at the Feast of the birth of Our Lord five loads, until the whole is spent. For the relief of poor prisoners in prisons of Newgate, Ludgate, and the two Compters in London, to each prison 40*s*. To son William Haddon £200 as his full part, and to the six children now living of said son William and Johane his wife £100 between them. To cousin Maud Daleham £13 6*s*. 8*d*. SAMUEL PEPYS, Born Feby 25th 1632, died May 26th 1703.

Erected by public subscription 1883.

ARMS.—Sable, on a bend or, between two nags' heads erased argent, three fleurs-de-lis of the first, PEPYS; impaling, Ermine, three roses gules, barbed and seeded proper, MARCHANT, Sieur de St. Michel.

This is from an elaborate monument in the style of the early eighteenth century set up by public subscription in 1883, from the design of Sir Arthur Blomfield, in the south aisle against the wall where a door gave access to the Navy Office pew by a covered stairway on the outside.

Samuel Pepys was of the family of the Earl of Cottenham: John Pepys of Cottenham married Edith, daughter and heiress of Edmund Talbot (son of Sir Gilbert Talbot); their third son Thomas Pepys was father, by Kezia his wife, of John Pepys, Citizen of London and after of Brampton in Huntingdonshire, who died in 1680, leaving by Margaret his wife two children—Samuel, the author of the "Diary," and Paulina, who married John Jackson and was mother of Samuel Jackson, heir to his uncle Samuel Pepys, and who left three daughters, his coheirs.

The will of this Samuel Pepys describes him as of the City of Westminster, Esq., and is dated 2 Aug. 1701 (P.C.C., 97, Degg), and he proceeds to say that he is now of the age of 69 years, and that he has been in the public service for twenty-four years. He leaves his messuages, land, and hereditaments in the parish of Brampton in Huntingdonshire and all other his freehold messuages, lands, etc., to his nephew Samuel Jackson of Brampton aforesaid, gentleman, eldest son of his late sister Paulina Jackson, deceased, for his life, and after his death to his issue lawfully begotten in tail male the elder before the younger, and failing such issue then to nephew John Jackson of the City of Westminster, gent., youngest son of the said sister Paulina Jackson, in like manner, and failing his issue male, remainder to his cousin Charles Pepys, second son of testator's uncle Thomas Pepys, deceased, also in tail male, and failing such, to testator's right heirs. The pension of £15 yearly to his old servant Jane Penny, widow of George Penny, settled on her by a deed dated 3 May 1690, is confirmed to be continued to her for her life. There is due to testator as Clerk of the Acts of the Navy and as Treasurer of Tangiers £28,007 2*s.* 1½*d.*: when this money is paid to the executor one-third is to be invested in lands of inheritance to augment those in Brampton, etc., named above, and the other two-thirds to be invested in lands of inheritance for nephew John Jackson and his heirs in tail male. Executor, friend William Hewer of Clapham in Surrey, Esq^re, and he to have £500. A codicil states that the nephew Samuel Jackson has since the date of the above will married against the advice and wishes of the testator, who therefore revokes that part relating to him and gives to the said Samuel and his lawfully begotten heirs only £40 yearly out of the said lands in Huntingdonshire, and makes his younger nephew John Jackson sole heir, with remainders as in the will recited. To M^rs Mary Skynner he bequeaths £100 per annum for her life. He gives to his executor, M^r Hewer of Clapham, with whom testator was at this time residing, all his models of ships and other vessels. [For a notice of the above William Hewer, Esq., see the "Journal of the Ex Libris Society."] Then follows particulars for the settlement and preservation of the testator's library, and another codicil dealing with the settlement of his landed property. The will was proved 25 June 1703.

7A. To the glory of God and in memory of EDWARD HENRY JONES, who died 12 Dec. 1865, aged 74.

This inscription is in the lower part of the window over the door leading into the churchyard. The subject of the window is the Burial, Resurrection and Ascension of our Saviour, and is an early work by Clayton and Bell. This Edward Henry Jones is commemorated in the armorial window on the north side of the church, in which his arms are given, he having been upper churchwarden in 1825-6 (see post).

This hatchment is against the south wall of the Baptistry. The arms are, dexter: Gules, on a fess wavy argent between in chief two garbs or, and in base as many anchors in saltire of the third, a lion passant-guardant azure enclosed by two roses of the first, barbed and seeded proper, in chief a crescent, the difference of a second son, TAYLOR; impaling, Barry of ten argent and azure, six inescutcheons sable, each charged with a lion rampant of the first, all within a bordure wavy or, CECIL. The wavy bordure indicates illegitimacy. Crest: From a mount vert a demi-lion rampant erminois gorged with two bars sable, on the shoulder a crescent for difference, the dexter paw grasping a rose as in the arms, for TAYLOR.

The above arms of Taylor were granted in 1810 to Robert Taylor of Tolmers in Bishop's Hatfield, Herts, and of this parish, and to his elder brother John Taylor of Titchfield Street in St. Marylebone, and to their descendants with due differences. The crescent on the arms and crest shew that the hatchment was for Robert Taylor, while the whole of the board outside the arms indicates that his wife died before him.

There are two codicils, dated respectively 22 Feb. 1799 and 2 March following, but add nothing worth noticing here, and the whole will is a very long one with legal settlements, so that the foregoing is a very brief abstract, but it gives so many relationships and points of contemporary life and usage it seems worth giving.

Boothby.

Ante, 5th Series, Vol. I., p. 55.

Brooke Boothby (1784—1829) was M.A., Rector of Kirkby in Ashfield, Notts, and J.P. co. Notts. The fire which destroyed the church of Kirkby on the 16th-17th January 1907 also destroyed his large marble monument, which bore the arms of Boothby impaling Venables, Vernon, and Vernon of Haslington quarterly. The inscription stated that he was for nearly 19 years rector of the parish and died 4th January 1829, aged 44. (See "Genealogist," N.S., vol. xxiii., p. 253.) A new monument has been erected to take the place of the old one.

* As mentioned above, Thomas Fettiplace of East Shefford and John Fettiplace of Wolvely are shown to be brothers in Vincent's MS. 143, College of Arms, and it is possible that they and Walter Fettiplace of Southampton were three sons of Henry Fettiplace of North Denchworth, who died in 1411. No evidence, however, can be adduced to prove this. They may have been brothers of Peter and Richard Fettiplace (see p. 96), who would appear to be sons of Richard Fettiplace. The will of the above John Highlord styles him "the elder, citizen and skynner of London," and is dated 19th March 1618 and is a long one, a large part being devoted to the legal settlement of his real estate. Pedigree of Standish of Bruff and of Frankfort, co. Limerick.*

See Harl. Soc.'s vol. lii. (1904), p. 919, for Standish of Billinghay, co. Lincoln. This was a branch of the family of Standish of Standish Hall, co. Lancaster, as appears from the funeral entry below. The Billinghay pedigree ends with Sir Thomas Standish of Sandon Chapel, co. Surrey, knighted at Whitehall 23 July 1603; sold Billinghay.

Sir Thomas migrated to Bruff, co. Limerick, and from his funeral entry in the Office of Arms, Dublin, certified by his son Edward, it appears that he was one of the Privy Council of Munster, eldest son of Henry Standish of Sandon Chappell, co. Surrey, and descended of Standish of Standish Hall, Lancashire; died 17 Nov. 1635, having married Faith, eldest dau. of Hamond Upton of Northolme, co. Lincoln, by whom he had five sons and eight daughters. Four sons and four daughters died v.p. without issue, leaving one son Edward (mar. Katherine, dau. of Sir Francis Slingsby of Newtown, co. Cork, who died s.p.) and four daus.: Elizabeth, mar. 1st Francis Hartstonge of South Repps, co. Norfolk, and 2nd . . . . Reymes; Anne, mar. Randall Brookes; Faith, mar. Dermot O'Grady; and Mary, mar. Robert Cox. The funeral entry is dated 26 Dec. 1635.

Sir Thomas made his will 17 Nov. 1635; it was proved 3 Dec. 1635. His only surviving son Edward was a childless widower. Sir Thomas settled his lands on his daughters. On 20 May 1637 Edward Standish had a grant of the Castle, manor, town and lands of Derryclogh, and the town and lands of Ballnefrankie, Mole and Ballynemona for himself, and of the Castle, manor, town and lands of Bruff for the use of Dame Faith Standish his mother for her life (Lodge MS., Records of the Rolls, vol. v., p. 499). There is no direct evidence that Edward Standish mar. a second wife, but he probably did, as John Standish of Ballyfrankie was buried in 1710. The first four generations of the following pedigree are taken from Betham's notes.

John Standish of Ballyfrankie, died 1710; bur. at Ballingarry 10 Oct. 1710. = ..., bur. at Ballingarry 2 July 1712.

Joseph Standish of Ballynafranky or Frankfort in co. Limerick, Esq. = Catherine, 3rd dau. of Major Nicholas Monckton of Kilmore 1735; of Liskallett, co. Limerick, Esq.; mar. 8 June 1710.

John Standish of Ballyfranky alias Frankfort, co. Limerick, Esq. = Elizabeth Nash, dau. and heir of Richard Nash of Neweastle, co. Limerick, and Ballyhoman, co. Limerick.		Michael Standish of Cork. =	Faith Standish, mar. Patrick Peppard of Kilmacow, co. Limerick, Esq.	Margaret Standish, mar. Mathew Markham of Limerick.

Percy of Ballintemple, King's County, and of Garadice, co. Leitrim.

Communicated by Sir A. M. B. Irwin, C.S.I.

The tradition in the Ballintemple-Garadice family is that Richard Percy of Ballintemple was a brother of Sir Anthony Percy of Dublin. Their father was supposed to have been Henry Percy, an officer of levies in Ireland. The "History of the Percy Family," by Brennan (1902), makes it clear that Sir Anthony's father was James Percy, "the trunk-maker," who claimed the earldom of Northumberland in 1670, and Sir Anthony had apparently only two brothers, whose names are given as Henry and John. In Brennan's table Henry is marked "s.p.," but in the text (p. 367) it is stated that both Henry and John left descendants, one of whom was John Percy of Ballintemple (died 1836).

Richard could not be the son of any son of the Claimant unless five Percies in succession were all married at the age of 19 or less, for the Claimant was born in 1619 and Richard's grandson was married in 1719. Therefore, if the statement on page 367 that John Percy was descended from a son of the Claimant is correct, then either the Claimant had a son Richard, or the first Percy of Ballintemple who married Sarah Padfield was not named Richard, but was Henry or John.

It seems possible, though unlikely, that the Claimant had a younger brother, who might be Richard or Richard's father.

Or Richard might be the son or grandson of the Claimant's uncle Robert, who is shewn in Brennan's table as leaving issue. Craik ("Romance of the Peerage") says that the Claimant himself said that his father's brother Robert had sons.

Or Richard might be descended from the Claimant's great-uncle Robert, brother of Henry of Pavenham. If "Alexander Percy, gentleman, of Ireland, that rides in the Life Guards," was about the same age as the Claimant, he might be the father of Richard.

This quotation about Alexander is from the Claimant's petition of 1679 to the King. The fragment of the petition quoted by Brennan seems to imply that the descendants of James's great-uncle were next in order of succession after himself and his male issue. This would not be so if either his brother or his uncle left sons. The full text of the petition would clear up this point, but I have not been able to find in Dublin a copy of "The Case of James Percy," by himself. I understand it is in the British Museum.

The name and status of Richard Percy of Ballintemple in this pedigree are taken from the pedigree registered in the Office of Arms in Dublin in 1815 by John Percy of Ballintemple.

Reviews.

Lincoln Record Society: Vol. IV., "Parish Registers of Grantham, co. Lincoln, 1562—1632"; Vol. V., "Parish Registers of Alford and Rigsby, co. Lincoln, 1538—1680"; Vol. VIII., "Visitation of the County of Lincoln, 1666."

The above Society is to be congratulated on the issue of these Volumes, which have been forwarded to us, and are a criterion of the valuable work the Society is doing.

The Parish Registers need no comment, it is sufficient to say that Grantham has been edited by the Rev. Canon C. W. Foster, M.A., F.S.A., with an interesting Introduction by the Rev. Gilbert G. Walker, M.A., the rector of Somerby, in which he gives some particulars relating to various families appearing in the Register. Alford and Rigsby is edited by the Rev. R. C. Dudding, rector of Saleby, who also contributes an Introduction, in which he draws attention to the names of many of the landed gentry recorded therein.

The publication of the Visitation of Lincolnshire, 1666, will be of great value, especially as it is issued under the editorship of Mr. Everard Green, Somerset Herald, which requires no further commendation as to its accuracy. Mr. W. H. Rylands adds a most able and interesting Introduction, from which we gather that this Visitation has been taken from a copy, made by the late Joseph Foster, of the one in the Heralds' College Library made by Sir Edward Bysshe, Clarenceux King of Arms, marked "D 23."

Mr. Rylands gives particulars of the various Visitations, and he examines into the evidence as to whether there was a Visitation of the County in 1683 by Sir Henry St. George, and comes to the conclusion "that it is in every way possible, and seems to be more than probable, that the Visitation of Lincolnshire, 1681—3, was made," and adds the appeal to all those interested to make search and try to recover the last Visitation.

D

Giles Fettiplace.

George Fettiplace.

* The evidence contained in the wills of Nathaniel Weston and Anne Fettiplace affords almost conclusive proof that George and Edmund were sons of Robert Fettiplace of Broughton, but, unfortunately, the parish register containing the entries concerning this branch of the family has not yet been found. It is somewhat curious that these two sons were not included with their brothers John, William and Giles in the deed of entail made by their uncle John Fettiplace in April 1621. Possibly they were the children of a second wife, for it will be noted that Anna Fettiplace outlived her husband Robert very many years. On this supposition a marriage recorded in the Appleton Parish Register of "Robert Fettiplace and Elizabeth Earles" on 24 October 1616 has here been assigned, at a venture, to Robert of Broughton.

Against the east wall is fixed the above shield and inscription; not far from this, and placed erect in a hollowed recess, is a large figure of a knight in armour, his hands raised in prayer and his head resting on his helmet, indicating that the figure was originally recumbent.

This figure is very well cut, and there seems every reason to believe formed part of the "fair marble tomb" mentioned by Stowe as being in the church in memory of Sir John Radcliffe and Anne his wife (a note of whom will come later), who is stated to be kneeling by the recumbent figure of her husband. The whole of this "fair tomb" had disappeared except the figure, arms, and inscription before 1823, when they are mentioned by J. B. G. in the "Gentleman's Magazine."

1582 Oct. 27 daye. M^r^ Peter Capony, gent., of the pla. (Plagne).

(P.C.C., 14, Tirwhite.) The will of Peter Caponius offers little of much interest; it was written in Italian, of which the registered copy is a translation into English, and is undated, and in the form of a letter addressed to "Maister Landy." It mentions no relations and few names. It commences "Wourshippfull Maister Landy I have bene oppressed w^th^ a suddayne syckenes the whiche I beleve will overpasse other remedies," then names certain sums of money, and then in the middle says he has forgotten what he wrote yesterday and goes over much the same thing again. Tobias Wall of Southampton, widower. Will dated 2 July 1743. To my sister Anne Newth £5000. Her dau. Lucretia Newth. To my nephew John Mills who now lives in or by Exeter £2000. To my nephew William Woodley £2000, t'is the said William that is now married to Mrs. Paine. To my nephew John Woodley £2000, brother to the said William. To my sister Woodley £100 a year. To Mrs. Eliz. Weekes who now lives at my house £500 and the house I now live in. To her sister Weekes that is now married to Capt. John Wise £100. To Ann Gallwey widow of Nicholas Gallwey £500. All residue here, in Nevis and St. Kitts with my sugar house to Mathew Mills, Esq., of Abchurch Lane, London.

1744, Aug. Adm'on to John Mills of Exeter, Esq., the nephew, pending the suit between Mathew Mills, Esq., the nephew and residuary legatee who propounds the will and Bridget Woodley the sister of deceased. Bridget Woodley, widow, and Ann Newth, widow, sisters, had appealed as next of kin against the will. Proved in 1754 (P.C.C., 95, Pinfold.)

By an Indenture of 1747 on the Close Rolls, it is recited that there had been suits at law, but terms having been agreed upon, the residuary estate was to be shared equally by John Mills, Bridget Woodley, Ann Newth and Mathew Mills.

By a marriage settlement of 1748 recorded in Nevis, it appears that the estate was estimated to amount to £80,000. Testator was, I think, formerly a planter of Nevis, and then settled as a merchant in London.

Lieut. Jasper Wall was a Member of the Assembly of Nevis in 1687, but owing to destruction of records previous to 1700 his will has not been found. He was apparently father of the following :—

1. Jasper, d. 1714 and left a will demising his plantation to his brother Tobias for life, then to his sisters.
2. Tobias, b. 1686, d. 1744 ; M.I. as above.
3. Mathew, b. 1688, d. 3 June 1733 ; M.I. in St. Paul's, Nevis.

1. Lucretia, m. the Hon. John Mills of St. Kitts.
2. Bridget, b. 1682, m. William Woodley of St. Kitts, Esq. She died 13 Feb. 1756, aged 74 ; M.I. at Little Parndon, co. Essex, with Arms of Woodley impaling : Argent, a bend between three wolves' heads couped Sable (Wall).
3. Anne, b. 1690, m. . . . . Newth ; she died 12 Aug. 1748, aged 58 ; M.I. at Little Parndon.

The above arms of Wall are as given in Wright's "Essex," II., 304. Burke's "Armory" has Wall of co. Lancaster : Argent, a bend Gules between three boars' heads couped Sable.

ARMS of Fettiplace.—Gules, two chevrons argent.

MOTTO.—FORTUNE AND GRACE.

Sir Philip Fettiplace was Lord of the Manor of North Denchworth in the time of Edward I., and bore for his arms: In a field two chevrons, quartering the coat of the Lord St. Amand, as is evident from a seal made use of by him, with his name round it, in the time of that King. (Ashmole's "Antiquities of Berks," vol. ii., p. 215.)

East Shefford and Besselsleigh branch :—
Gules, two chevrons argent, quartering Besels and Legh.

Childrey and Swinbrook branch :—
Gules, two chevrons argent, a crescent for difference.

Letcome Regis branch :—
Gules, two chevrons argent, in the dexter chief a canton ermine, a crescent for difference.

Fernham branch :—
Gules, two chevrons argent, quartering Besels and Legh, a mullet for difference.

Lambourn branch :—
Gules, two chevrons argent, a crescent charged with a crescent for difference.

The arms of Fettiplace are incorrectly shown on the brass in Slaugham Church, Sussex, to Jane Covert, who died in 1586, and was the widow of Sir John Fettiplace of Besselsleigh, where three chevrons appear in the place of two.

The Fettiplace arms are to be seen in the cloisters of Canterbury Cathedral. The cloisters were built by Prior Chillenden between the years 1391 and 1411, to the cost of which many of the neighbouring gentry contributed, and whose arms are displayed on the bosses at the intersections of the rib-mouldings on the groined vaulting of the bays. The Fettiplace shield forms one of these bosses, and is in the fourth compartment of the north pane of the cloisters.

The first Fettiplace in England was Gentleman Usher to William the Conqueror, and came in with that Monarch. (Burke's "Extinct Baronetcies of England.")

The name of Fettiplace is recorded on the Battle Abbey Roll as given by Hearn in the Liber Niger Scaccarii from the collections of William of Worcester.

The earliest record of the name of Fettiplace found in compiling these pedigrees of the family is in the time of King John, when a grant from the Prior and Convent of S^t. Mary of Hatfield Regis is witnessed by Geoffrey Petitpas and others. (Add. Charter 28356, Brit. Museum.)

The latest mention of the name so far discovered is on a headstone in the churchyard of Holy Trinity, Gray's Inn Road: "M^rs Mary Fettiplace, who departed this life the 3 of August 1831, aged 82 years; also M^r John Fettiplace, husband of the above Mary Fettiplace, who died the 12 of June 1832, aged 75 years."

Note concerning the Fettiplaces of North Denchworth, Berks.

The King to his Treasurer and Barons of the Exchequer, greeting. Whereas Amery Feteplace in the 20^th year of our reign, at the time of our crossing over into parts beyond the seas, when we landed at Hogges in Normandy with our army, found for us his son Thomas ready and prepared to set out in our service aforesaid, and the same Thomas set out to the parts aforesaid in company with our well-beloved cousin William, Earl of Northampton, and remained continuously in our service aforesaid in those parts as well at the battle of Cressy and elsewhere thereabouts, as in the siege of our town of Calais until our return into England, as the said Earl has certified us, we command you to surcease the making of any demands upon the lands and tenements which belonged to the aforesaid Amery for the finding of any men of arms, hobelas, or archers for our said service, or for the payment of any sums of money to us on this account by summons in the Exchequer aforesaid, and that you cause as well the said Amery as the aforesaid Thomas, now tenant of the said lands which belonged to the said Amery, as we are informed, to be discharged and quit at the said Exchequer.

Witness myself at Westminster on the 20^th day of May in the 31^st year of our reign in England, and in France the 18^th.

This writ is allowed in the Great Roll of the 29th year in Berks. (Exch. K.R. memoranda, 133, 31 Edw. III.)

The above Thomas Feteplace was the son and heir of Amery, the latter dying immediately after the assessment was made. (See Treaty Roll, 23, mem. 25 d, 20 Edw. III., part 2.)

1420-21. Grant of houses in Caen. To Thomas Fetiplas, William Breton (and others). (Norman Rolls, 8 Henry V., part 1.)

Note concerning Richard and William Fettiplace of Kentwood and Maidencourt, Berks.

In Add. Charter 55572 (British Museum) it is stated that Richard Fettiplace and Frideswide his wife had issue, both sons and daughters, but only William and his younger brother Thomas (who should have been shewn in the pedigree) are named in the deed. Frideswide and her sister Elizabeth, wife of John Swafeld, inherited from their father, Robert Kentwood, the manors of Bridsthorne, Croft-in and Alyngton, Bucks, the manors of Kentwood, Cholsey, Sulhampstead, Tilehurst, and lands and tenements in Kentwood, Cholsey, Moulsford, Tilehurst, Theale, Reading and Basildon, Berks. Also the manor of West Shefford with lands and tenements there and in Colrugge, Farley and Holmys, Berks, and the manor of Bradley in Somerset. These reverted to the Fettiplaces on the death of Elizabeth, who died without issue.

Note concerning the Fettiplaces of Childrey.

William Fettiplace was a great benefactor to Queen's College, Oxford, where his obit is kept every year on the 23rd December, and at Childrey on the 1st Sunday in Lent. He gave the Provost and scholars and their successors estates and lands, mentioned hereafter, upon condition that they maintained a chantry he had founded in Childrey Church and an almshouse for three poor men in the village. The College was also to pay the chantry priest £8 a year, 9*d.* weekly to each of the three almsmen, who were to receive in addition an annual allowance of 3*s.* 4*d.* apiece for a gown and 2*s.* 8*d.* for fuel. The endowment included a moiety of the manor of Letcombe Basset and other lands, rents and issues in Letcombe Basset, Hindley, West Shefford, Bockhampton, Chipping Lambourn, Hurst, Finkesley, Beedon, Stanmore, Woolstone, Westcote, Sparsholt, Grove, Uffington and Childrey, and the advowsons of the churches of Erleigh Bartholomew, Berks, and Kelmscot, Oxon. William Fettiplace also gave to Queen's College 23*s.* 4*d.* to be distributed annually for a refection in the Common Hall.

Mew of Eastington, co. Gloucester.*

This family, whose name is also spelt Mewe, Mewes, Mews, was in all probability a branch of the family of Mew or Mews of Caundle Purse, Dorset, to which Dr. Peter Mew(s), Bishop of Bath and Wells, 1673, and of Winchester, 1684—1706, belonged.

I. William Mew, apparently a lawyer†, resident in the parish of St. Giles-in-the-Fields in 1606 and 1635, settled in Eastington, co. Gloucester, before 15 December 1637, the date of his will, proved P.C.C. (57, Coventry), 29 April 1640. He left issue :—

1. William Mew (II.)
1. Hannah, baptized at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, 22 December 1606; married John Lawrence and had issue a son John, admitted to Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 19 October 1652, then described as (native) "of Middlesex" Vicar of Nassington, 1660, afterwards of Stamford.
2. Elizabeth, married . . . . Barrow.

The following is an abstract of the will of William Mew (I.) :—

"To the poor of the parish where I now dwell. To my son William the annuity and lease‡ for years which I had of Sir Arthur Hopton, knight (now deceased), and of Robert Hopton, Esq., with the statute and writings and all the leases of the tenements of the Blue Boar in Holborn, Middlesex. To my daughter-in-law Grace Mewe, my son's wife, the lease of my house in Holborn aforesaid, wherein John Child, gent., now dwelleth, with all the years that I have therein yet to issue. To my daughter Hannah Laurence £50 at her own disposing. To my cousin Nathaniel Mew £10 when he is out of his apprenticeship. To my cousin Thomas Mewe £5 when he is out of his apprenticeship. My cousin James Mayo§ shall have all my books for searches for recoveries, paying every term yearly to my grandchild Samuel Mewe 20*s.* during their joint lives. To my cousin Hester Mew £4 at twenty-one, which legacy my son-in-law John Lawrence is to discharge as by his bond appeareth. Residue of my goods to my son William, he to be executor. Mr. Mathew Haviland and Mr. James Mayo to be overseers. To my daughter Elizabeth Barrowe 40*s.* To everyone of my grandchildren 40*s.* To every servant

* Communicated by G. O. Bellewes, Esq.

† He was probably related to William Mew, who was "servant" to James Hannam of Hollwell, Somerset, a Bencher of the Middle Temple, in 1581 and 1597 (see Will of Benjamin Hannam of Caundle Purse, a brother of James Hannam, dated 17 August, proved P.C.C. 37, Darcy), 4 November 1581; and Will of James Hannam, dated 20 May, proved P.C.C. (62, Cobham), 20 June 1597). On 6 March 1597-8, William Mew was admitted to the Middle Temple, as fourth son of Peter Mew of Purscandle, Dorset, gent., deceased. On 10 May following he was admitted, by assignment of Sir Francis Hastings and Mary his wife [widow and] executrix of James Hannam, to "the lower chamber on the south side of the building built by Hannam and others, in which chamber the office of the clerk of Estreats and Warrants of the Common Bench is now held, and also to the chamber on the second floor above the said office." On 12 February 1608-9 other tenants were admitted to the chamber on the second floor "on surrender of his interest by Mr. Mewe." On 8 June 1627 it was resolved to admit another tenant into "the ground chamber of the late Mr. Mewe, where he kept the office of the clerk of the Estreats." On 11 June following, and on 12 May 1629, there are references to this chamber as had by "surrender" of William Mew. ("Middle Temple Records," vol. i., pp. 382, 383; vol. ii., pp. 488, 723, 748. Cf. "Notes and Queries," 11 S., iii., 105, 196.)

‡ This lease was granted presumably between 1601 and 1607. Sir Arthur Hopton died in 1607. Robert Hopton, his son and heir, was born in 1580. Robert Hopton occupied a manor house at Ditcheat, Somerset (see "Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica," third Series, vol. ii., p. 83). James Mew of the Caundle Purse family settled in Ditcheat, and was buried there 28 November 1619. See his will, of which his nephew James Mew "of Caundle" is an overseer, dated 17 February 1618-19; proved P.C.C. (10, Soame), 11 February 1619-20. He left a daughter Mary, married at Ditcheat, 25 July 1608, to Henry Hannam.

§ James Mayo, Clerk of the Warrants, etc., died at his house in Chancery Lane on 13 February 1673, aged about 84. He was probably related to Clement Mayo of Ditcheat, who married Elizabeth daughter of . . . . Gregory by his marriage with Dionise, sister of Sir Ralph Hopton of Witham, Somerset (see Chancery Depositions before 1714, b. 681, 54, Mayo v. Hopton, 3 October 1599. Cf., will of Sir Ralph Hopton, dated 8 December 1571; proved P.C.C., (7, Daper), 1571-2). II. William Mew, born in London; admitted as a pensioner to Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1 October 1618; B.A., 1622; M.A., 1626; B.D., 1633. Author of "Pseudomasia," a MS. Latin play.* Sometime a London lecturer. Rector of Eastington on the presentation of Nathaniel Stephens. Compounded for first-fruits 26 May 1635: bondsmen, William Mew of the parish of St. Giles-in-the-Fields, and James Mayo of the parish of St. Dunstan-in-the-West. Talked of as a Puritan candidate for Convocation.† A member of the Westminster Assembly of Divines. On the "solemn fast day," 29 November 1643, he preached at St. Margaret's, Westminster, before the House of Commons on "The Robbing and Spoiling of Jacob and Israel." It was ordered by the House on that day that "Mr. Stephens do return thanks to Mr. Mewe for the great pains he took in the sermon," and that "his said sermon be printed." In an "Epistle" to the Commons, prefixed to the sermon, dated "Chancery Lane, 19 December 1643," he writes: "You have chosen an assembly of such counsellors as you and all may confide in (to whom I should have thought it honour enough for me to have been a doorkeeper). Their peaceable conflicts and pious debates want nothing but His Majesties ears to make them hear well throughout the land .... Former times have made a great noise about the Church or place of God's worship, but these later (with God's blessing upon your indeavours) may produce the power and purity of it. I shall pray that our dread soveraign may live to see and say of God's House .... he found it thacht and overtopt with Lauds, Wrens, Cousens, &c., but will leave it paved and adorned with Whitakers, Prestons, and Sibses cum multis aliis ...."

On 30 December 1651 William Mew begged payment of an annuity of £30 charged on Tilshead Rectory, Wilts (which had been sequestrated from Sir Ralph Hopton), and on 13 April 1652 this annuity was allowed, with arrears, from 24 December 1649.‡

On 28 August 1654 he was appointed one of the ministers assistant for Gloucestershire to the Commissioners for ejecting scandalous ministers, etc.§

It is surprising the amount of incorrect heraldry to be found upon bookplates, to say nothing of armorial china and other objects on which armorial bearings are depicted.

The accompanying five Sullivan bookplates as an example of using arms while under great uncertainty as to what were the right arms to use, are particularly interesting.

Taking these plates as nearly in the order in which they were engraved as possible, viz.:—

I. An ornate plate in which the spade-shaped shield is surrounded by flowers and leaves, all within a circular bordure of conventional form. The arms are, Per fesse, in chief vert two lions rampant combatant argent supporting a sword [proper hilt and pommel or] erect entwined with a serpent of the second. In base per pale, the dexter of the first charged with a stag trippant respectant silver; the sinister side of the last charged with a boar passant sable, for SULLIVAN; impaling, Gules, a lion rampant within a double tressure fleury counter fleury, all argent, for LODGE. Crest: On a coronet [or] a robin [proper].

II. A plain spade-shaped shield with the same arms and crest, with this variation in the arms, the stag looks the way it is going and is not full face. Below the shield is the owner's name, "Richard Joseph Sulivan." In this and No. III. it will be observed there is only one "l" in Sullivan.

This Richard Joseph Sullivan [as the name has since been spelt] was the third son of Benjamin Sullivan, who had discontinued the prefix "O" to his name. He was Clerk of the Crown for the counties of Cork and Waterford. The son Richard Joseph Sullivan settled at Thames Ditton, and was created a Baronet 22 May 1804 as of that place. Sir Richard had married, 3 Dec. 1778, Mary, only surviving daughter of Thomas Lodge of Leeds, which lady survived, and on the four bookplates of her husband we get three variations for the coat Lodge. One coat we have on I. and II. On—

III. The Sullivan arms are altered thus: Per fesse in chief or, a dexter hand couped at the wrist gules grasping a sword erect, the blade entwined by a serpent, both proper, hilt and pommel of the second, all between two lions rampant combatant of the last, in base per pale the dexter vert a stag trippant argent, the sinister per pale of the fifth and sable, a wild boar passant counterchanged, SULLIVAN; impaling, Gules, a lion rampant argent charged with three cross-crosslets [? of the field], within a bordure of the second, from which issue four demi fleurs-de-lis of the same, for LODGE. Crest: On a coronet [or] a robin with a slip of laurel in its beak [all proper]. Motto: LAMH FOISDINEACH AN UACHTAR.

In this plate no colours for the charges on the chief are given, they are supplied from Plate IV. It will be noticed that no mark of difference for a younger son appears on either of these plates; this is corrected in the fourth plate. Below, "Richard Joseph Sulivan, Thames Ditton, Surrey."

IV. The arms, crest and motto of Sullivan, with a mullet in chief of the arms and on the breast of the robin in the crest, to indicate its being for a third son. Impaling, Per fesse gules and sable, a lion rampant argent charged with three cross-crosslets [of the first] within a bordure of the second, therefrom issuing five demi fleurs-de-lis of the same, LODGE. Below, "Richard Joseph Sullivan, Thames Ditton, Surrey." In No. III. the bordure in the coat of Lodge is incorrectly carried round the arms; in No. IV. the bordure is omitted on the side the arms of Lodge comes against Sullivan, which is correct. This rule in modern heraldry is a survival of the early practice when two coats were first impaled of dividing both coats down the middle, and putting the dexter half of one against the sinister half of the other. In neither of the four plates does the badge of a baronet occur; we may therefore conclude that they were all engraved before that title was conferred on the owner.

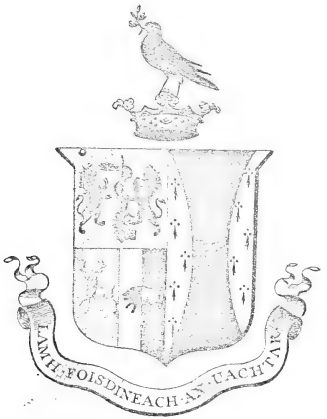
The coat of Lodge on Plates I. and II. is the same as Burke gives for Lodge of Nettlested, Suffolk, but with different colours, viz., the field azure and the charges or. No. III. has almost the same as Burke assigns to Lodge of London, but the latter has the field azure. Burke also gives as Lodge of Leeds the coat in No. IV., but no bordure and more crosses on the lion. This all appears without any authority being cited.



John Sullivan.
Richings Lodge Bucks.

V. The fifth plate has Sullivan arms, crest and motto as in No. IV., but with a crescent for the second son, the impalement being Hobart, Sable, an estoile or, between two flanches ermine. Below, "John Sullivan. Richings Lodge, Bucks."

This plate, which is quite correct heraldically, belonged to the Right Hon. John Sullivan of Richings, second son of Benjamin Sullivan and elder brother of the above Sir Richard Joseph Sullivan, Bart.; he was born 7 April 1749, and was Under-Secretary for War from 1801 to 1805, in which year he was sworn of the Privy Council; he married, 24 May 1789, Henrietta Ann Barbara Hobart daughter of George, 3rd Earl of Buckingham.

Obituary.

GEORGE GRAZEBROOK, F.S.A.

It is with great regret that we have to record the death of this old and valued contributor, who passed away on the 11th August last at his residence at Clent in Worcestershire. He came of an ancient Staffordshire family, and was born at Glasgow on the 4th July 1831. His father Henry Grazebrook was an Iron Merchant and East India Merchant, who went to Glasgow about 1812, subsequently removing to Liverpool in 1841, and died in 1872. Mr. George Grazebrook became a partner in 1855, and retired from business in 1891, when he left Liverpool.

He had always taken a deep interest in genealogy, and devoted a good deal of his leisure to that fascinating subject, and his death will leave a blank amongst that band of Researchers into the past of Family History.

He contributed largely to this Journal, his principal papers appearing in 3rd Series, Vols. III. and V., and 4th Series, Vols. I., II., III., IV. and V. on the Family of Grazebrook; The birth and youthful career of Henry, Earl of Richmond, afterwards Henry VII., and his progress to Bosworth Field; An unpublished Letter by Henry, Earl of Richmond, written while on the way to Bosworth Field 14 March 1485; and on A Heraldic and Physiological Curiosity.

He also edited, in conjunction with Mr. J. Paul Rylands, F.S.A., the Visitations of Shropshire for the Harleian Society, the Introduction to which was written by him.

For the Historic Society of Lancashire and Cheshire he wrote in 1889 An attempt to classify and date the various Shapes in Heraldic Shields which appeared in Vol. 41, pp. 1—76 of their Transactions, and was afterwards reprinted in book form, and in 1894 The Earl Marshal's Court in England, comprising Visitations and the penalties incurred by their neglect in Vol. 45, pp. 99—140, which was also reprinted separately.

Mr. Grazebrook was elected a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries in 1857, and exhibited various objects at the Society in 1881, 1886 and 1904. He also read a paper before them on Mediæval Surnames and their various Spellings on the 18th Feb. 1897, but this paper was not printed.

He married Charlotte Elizabeth, daughter of Colonel Robert Owen, 72nd Highlanders. She died in 1872, leaving several sons and daughters.

Capponi.

Communicated by VERE L. OLIVER, Esq.

(See ante, p. 276, No. 44.)

I have in my possession an Italian deed on parchment, drawn up in Florence on 16 May 1618, relating to a portrait of an ancestor of "the noble lady Madonna Francesca de Benivieni, the honored spouse of the right illustrious Senator Messer Ottavio Capponi," which picture she desired to be preserved as an heir-loom, in the same manner as that of their "glorious paternal ancestor Gino Capponi." The translator of the above in 1849 added: "Nota. To this act hangs a seal of yellow wax bearing the Capponi's arms (cut of sable and silver) with this motto painted on the parchment band: CAPPON TU STRILLI COME UN GALLO (Capon thou crowest like a cock), being the words addressed by the French King Lewis the XIIth to Pietro Capponi, the Envoy of the Florentine Republic."

Review.

History of the Family of Maunsell (Maunsell, Mansel). By EDWARD PHILLIPS STATHAM. Vol. I., 498 and xvii pp. Price £2 2*s.* net. (London: Kegan Paul, Trench and Co., Ltd.)

This work has been compiled chiefly from data collected during many years by Colonel Charles A. Maunsell. The Author, however, has not been content with mere printed authorities or with the work of previous historians of the family, but has gone to original MSS. and Records in order to ensure accuracy. The first three and the eighth chapters deal with the origin of the name: the Maunsell Arms and Crest; the derivation and early genealogy; and with the derivation and descent of the Welsh Mansels, the period covered being from the Norman Conquest until the reign of Henry III. Chapter IV. is devoted to the Maunsells of Gloucestershire. It is, however, the four chapters devoted to the biographies of individual members of the family that are the most interesting, viz.: Sir John Maunsell, Chancellor to Henry III.; Jenkin Mansel; Sir Rhys Mansel; and Admiral Sir Robert Mansel, 1573—1656. The history of the first named has been gone into very exhaustively. It is said that "For over thirty years during that long and turbulent reign, his name figures in almost every State record, he appears as the King's adviser, as his chosen representative in the most important and weighty affairs at home, in the most delicate and responsible missions abroad." He has been styled the Wolsey of the thirteenth century, but was probably of a higher type of man than the great cardinal. He was also one of the greatest of pluralists on record. It is remarkable that there should be so many doubts still remaining as to the exact ancestry and of the descendants of a man of such importance.

In the case of Sir Rhys Mansel, during the reign of Henry VIII., it deals principally with the rebellion in Ireland, in the suppression of which he took a prominent part. At the dissolution of the Monasteries Sir Rhys purchased Margam Abbey, which became one of the principal seats of the family, the history of which is given in another portion of the book. Sir Rhys Mansel in 1543 became Vice-Admiral under Viscount Lisle, and afterwards spent much of his time in naval and military service in Scotland and France until his death in 1557. The final chapter deals with the life history of Sir Robert Mansel, Admiral of the Narrow Seas.

An account of the various demesnes of the Family, viz., Margam Abbey, Oxwich and Penrice Castles, etc., form the subject of two chapters.

The whole is copiously illustrated with portraits, seals, arms, castles, churches, monuments, views, plans, etc. In the text is a number of tabular pedigrees shewing the various descents, and in the Appendix are some pedigrees of families with whom they intermarried, viz.: Turberville, Basset, Carne and Somerset, Earls of Worcester.

The history has been most carefully compiled and is put together in a very interesting manner. It not only appeals to members of the family, but also to the historical student.
